

1935

CAMP

Preystone

TUXEDO, NORTH CAROLINA

Nature Classes are thrilling

NATURE LORE

The realm of nature becomes a fascinating reality as the campers study birds, flowers and trees while on their hikes and in special classes. Greystone is especially fortunate in having the interest of Mr. Showalter, editor of the National Geographic, who offers a substantial prize for the best collection of wild flowers. Another prize is offered by the Samuel Fessingdon Clark Foundation.

HANDCRAFT

Everybody likes to be able to make things to take home from camp. At Greystone the girls weave rugs on the looms, make jewelry from silver and precious stones, tool leather, bind books, weave baskets, and learn many other fascinating crafts.

Skill in Weaving, Craft Department

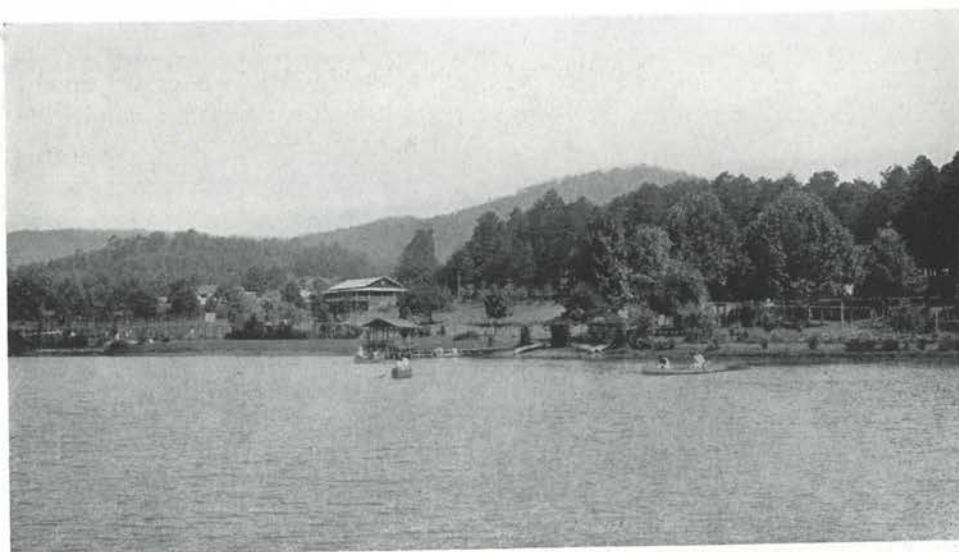

Bible Study Classes by the Lake

BIBLE STUDY is conducted by special councillors who have taken comprehensive courses in Bible teaching. Camp Greystone believes in the Bible as the foundation of character and offers several most attractive courses. These courses are optional.

GLEE CLUB The Glee Club and Orchestra are very popular with the campers. Be sure to bring any musical instrument you play.

SONGS are heard all over Camp Greystone from early morning till "taps" at night. Trained councillors teach the girls peppy songs for all occasions. There are songs for the morning's sun and the star-lit night; songs of welcome and farewell; songs for the victor or the vanquished; songs for every phase of camp life. From the lake comes the song of a group in the canoes or down from Mount Laurie's height the songs of the sun-set climbers. Under the pines at assembly or around the camp fire "on the trail," the girls sing and SING and SING! Camp Greystone believes in song.

Camp Tentacles hidden in Pine Grove